We can feel that spring is coming with three cold days and four warm days, aka “Sankan Shion.” Speaking of spring, it is the season of love. As the daylight hours get longer, the flounders and the abalones become more mature and have mating season. The flounders and the abalones in the rearing test facility are still immature and too young for the season of love, however, those in the rearing training facility may be about time.

According to Mr. K., who has an experience in abalone cultivation, this part of the body began to swell.

This is the proof of maturity.
