

<Marine Organism Rearing Log>

9 AM, April 12, 2023

Weather: Cloudy

Water temperature: 18.6°C

This is the second episode about parasites. The parasites that afflicted us in June last year grow up through the following process: The larvae that hatched from eggs swim to and cling on flounder's gills to grow up sucking blood there. Even if parasites are detected at the rearing test facility, we will address them appropriately utilizing the know-how we gained through the training rearing.

